Unlike most reading, spelling and phonics programs, LiPS instruction directly applies phonemic awareness to the identification & sequencing of sounds in words. Students in the LiPS program move through a series of steps to learn how their mouths produce the sound of language. This kinesthetic feedback enables them to verify the identity and sequence of sounds within words, and to become self-correcting in reading, spelling, and speech. This group is appropriate for children experiencing difficulty learning to read, specifically with decoding skills.
